Jane Jin Kaisen

Artist Profile as part of Processing Space–Times

Jane Jin Kaisen's (Jeju Island, South Korea) 'Community of Parting' is a reframing of the Korean shamanic myth of Princess Bari, who was abandoned at birth for being born a girl and becomes the goddess who mediates the threshold of the living and the dead. It includes the stories of South Korean, North Korean, and diasporic women while they negotiate gender biases, colonialism, modernity, and war. Kaisen relates the princess to the contemporary female shamans who gather the living, the dead, and the spirits. The artist uses similar rituals to call on us to witness the radical ruptures and unfinished narratives in historyhistories.
